Renewable Energy - Biogas Technology for Sustainable Fuel and Organic Manure Staff Training Programme Organised

Shri. Shiv Kumar, Secretary (Port, Shipping and Aviation) delivering inaugural address in the staff training programme at Kavaratti.

Kavaratti : Biogas Development and Training Centre (B D T C) , Department of Renewable Energy Engineering, Agricultural Engineering College and Research Institute, Tamil Nadu Agricultural University (TNAU), Coimbatore organised the staff training programme on "Renewable Energy-Biogas Technology for Sustainable Fuel and Organic Manure" between 17th February and 20th February, 2020 for the staff of Lakshadweep Administration at Capital Island in coordination with Lakshadweep Energy Development Agency (LEDA).

Two resource faculties, Dr. S. Pugalendhi, Professor and Head and Dr. R. Mahendiran, Associate Professor, Department of Renewable Energy Engineering, TNAU conducted the training programme at Kavaratti under New National Biogas and Organic Manure Programme (NNBOMP) sponsored by Ministry of New and Renewable Energy, New Delhi. Totally 16 participants were took part in the staff training from various departments namely Lakshadweep Energy Development Agency (LEDA), Science and Technology (S&T), Lakshadweep Public Works Department (LPWD), Directorate of Animal Husbandry, Environment and Forest and Agriculture.

Inaugural session of staff training was held on 17th February at Secretariat Conference Hall. The staff training was inaugurated by Shri. Shiv Kumar, Secretary (Port, Shipping and Aviation). In his inaugural address the emphasis on use of renewable energy in Lakshadweep Islands by utilizing the biomass resources through biogas plants and other renewable energy technologies for maintaining the green and clean Islands besides better livelihood condition of the people of Lakshadweep, since these Islands are totally depending on diesel and LPG for meeting the energy needs. India is basically agriculture country and plenty of bio-degradable waste materials are available for power generation for the betterment of the Islands and free from fossil fuel based pollution particularly from diesel. He interacted with TNAU Resource faculties for the way forward in implementing the biogas programme at public locations as well as in all Islands for treating solid wastes. He narrated the application of biogas for cooking and thermal application in fish-processing sector. He emphasized the utilization of coconut wastes for producing heat energy for drying fish under hygienic environment by using suitable technology since these wastes are available in plenty. He also stressed the need for integrating the different renewable sources of energy such as solar, biomass and biogas for sustainable power generation. He requested the participants to involve themselves to explore the possibilities for the promotion of renewable energy wherever possible in Lakshadweep to make the Islands as a cleaner and greener using bio and renewable sources.

Shri. C.N. Shajahan, Superintending Engineer (LPWD) and Director (LEDA) delivered his special address about the use of biogas plants in Islands, particularly for cooking in which the consumption of LPG can be minimized and thereby increasing the economic status of the people of Lakshadweep Islands. He stressed about the cultivation of vegetables in the backyard and roof-top garden using the organic manure produced from biogas plants for promoting the better health condition, by which the people need not depend on the vegetables from mainland. About 29 Deenabandubiogas plants of ferro-cement had been constructed in Kalpeni Island and 3 KVIC biogas plants installed at Kavaratti. In addition, he also emphasized the need to repowering the age-old solar power plants and establishing the new solar power plants for producing green energy through Solar Energy Corporation of India (SECI). Large numbers of rain water harvesting structures has been established across Islands for providing safe drinking water besides centralized desalination of sea water.

The Programme Coordinator of BDTC, TNAU has delivered lectures on overview of renewable energy sources, selection of biogas plant models, capacity and socio-economic aspects of biogas technology. Subsequently, he taught about the construction of KVIC and Deenabandhu biogas plant models. He narrated the application of bio-digested slurry and the preparation of inputs for organic farming.

The Co-Programme Coordinator has delivered lectures on utilization of biogas for thermal applications and power generation, biomass energy conversion from agricultural residues, solar-biomass hybrid dryers for drying applications.

Muhsin, Scientist, DST, expressed his involvement in the promotion of biogas plants in Lakshadweep Islands. He also informed the gathering about the knowledge gained from the training programme organized by BDTC, TNAU at Coimbatore which stimulated for establishing the biogas plants in the Islands.

Field visits also arranged to the participants for exposing the operational biogas plants and organic manure production units in Kavaratti. Exposure visit includes compost yard at Dairy farm, food and bio-waste composting and central waste segregation facility and municipal solid waste incinerator plant in Kavaratti.
